If you are interested in ensuring the successful implementation of your agency's officer wellness and suicide prevention program, then the National Suicide Awareness for Law Enforcement Officers (SAFLEO) Program Train-the-Trainer Workshop is for you. This highly interactive, 2-day course includes:

- The latest data available on law enforcement officer suicide
- Evidence-based strategies
- Supporting research (e.g., positive psychology)
- Instructional design principles
- Resources for continued professional development
- The development of a specific and individualized action plan
- The Line Officer Training PowerPoint, which can be used to continue the training process within the organization

This workshop will enable established trainers and instructors to support their agencies' programs and encourage and effect behavioral and organizational culture change. Participants will have the opportunity to hone their instructional skills by facilitating a topic from the Line Officer Training course.

In order to attend, you must have successfully completed either the SAFLEO Line Officer Training or the SAFLEO Leadership and Supervision Training.
